INTRODUCTION

Provenance

The San Francisco Unified School District Records were transferred to the San Francisco Public Library from the school district in 1999.

Access

This collection is open for research and available in the San Francisco History Center in the Main Library. The hours are: Tuesday to Thursday, 10 am to 6 pm; Friday, 12 noon to 6 pm; Saturday, 10 am to 6 pm; and Sunday, 12 noon to 5 pm.

Publication Rights

All requests for permission to publish or quote from manuscripts must be submitted in writing to the City Archivist.

Collection Number

SFH 3

Size

84.5 cu. ft (in 141 boxes), 88 scrapbooks (32 linear. ft.)

Materials Cataloged Separately

Yearbooks and some other publications have been transferred to the book collection of the San Francisco Public Library where they have been integrated with other bound volumes. These include Annual and Biennial Reports of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, 1852-1926 (broken, titles vary); San Francisco Public Schools Annual Reports, 1862 to 1937 (broken; title varies) and 1956 to 1967; San Francisco Public Schools Bulletin, 1930 to 1967, and San Francisco Unified School District Newsletter, 1967 to 1977; and Rules and Regulations of the Board of Education, 1863 to 1927 (broken; title varies). See Appendix B for a complete list of titles moved.

Photographs and negatives are housed with the San Francisco Historical Photograph Collection, and are available on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 1 to 5 pm, and Saturdays, 10 am to 12 noon and 1 to 5 pm. Also, many images are available online at www.sfpl.org.

Related Materials

Researchers are encouraged to see also the San Francisco History Center's vertical files, reference cards, and small manuscripts collections on schools; and biographical files and cards for individuals. Researchers should also check the catalog holdings of the San Francisco Public Library for related materials. A list of related materials is found in Appendix A.

Conservation Note

During processing, the entire collection was re-folded and re-housed in acid-free folders and boxes. Some metal staples remain. Some documents on acidic or thermal paper were photocopied onto acid-free paper. Other documents on acidic paper were kept in their original state and separated with acid-free paper. Scrapbooks were housed in either acid-free boxes or polyester bags. A few damaged negatives and unfixed proofs were digitally copied and then removed.

INSTITUTIONAL HISTORY

The first American school in the state was a private institution, established in San Francisco in April, 1847. Later the same year, the first public schoolhouse was built in 1847 on the southwest corner of the town plaza, now Portsmouth Square. On Feb. 21, 1848, the first school board was elected, and the school opened on April 3, 1848, led by Thomas Douglas. The Douglas school charged tuition but was under public auspices with partial public support. Word of gold soon drew citizens away from San Francisco, and the school was closed; the building was demolished in 1850. In late 1849, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Pelton opened a school in the First Baptist Church. By a resolution adopted by the Common Council, the Peltons' school became a free public school in April, 1850. Meanwhile, the Happy Valley School opened in July, 1850, near the corner of Second and Minna streets. Happy Valley was a private enterprise but free to those who couldn't afford it. The following spring, the Spring Valley School opened, also private but free to those who couldn't pay.

In 1851, the Common Council passed the first Free School Ordinance which allowed for the levying of taxes, divided the city into seven school districts, and established a free public school in each district as well as the annual election of a school board. The first school board under this organization hired Thomas J. Nevins as Superintendent of the Free Common Schools of the city. Happy Valley (later named Denman Grammar) was the first public school to open under this organization, immediately followed by the Powell Street School and Washington Grammar School. The following schools were organized in 1852: Rincon School, Spring Valley Grammar School, Union Grammar School, Mission Grammar School, and Clark's Point Grammar School (later named Garfield Primary). A number of private schools also continued to operate. An 1852 census indicated there were 2,050 school-age children in San Francisco.

Known first as the Department of Common Schools, the department later became known as San Francisco Public Schools, the Department of Education, and the San Francisco Unified School District, its current name. The district is run by a superintendent hired by the Board of Education, an elected body of policy makers.

In 1853, the State Legislature passed an act making Catholic or "ward" schools part of the public school system. The act was subsequently repealed in 1855, in an effort to separate church and state schools. However, ward schools were merged into the city's public schools.

The first high school began in 1856 as Union Grammar School with 80 advanced pupils, both boys and girls. It was declared a permanent high school in January, 1858, and named San Francisco High School; the first class of 11 students graduated in December, 1859. The sexes were separated in 1864, with the girls transferring to Girls High School at the corner of Bush and Stockton streets, and the boys remaining at the newly-renamed Boys High School on Powell Street. Girls were allowed "to take a Classical course of study” at Boys High in 1888. The name was changed to Lowell High School in 1894, a coeducational school.

Evening school was established in 1856 to accommodate youth who worked during the day. In 1864, the student population included those over 18 years of age. Other special classes and schools established over the years included the Oral School for the Deaf (in 1901), conservation of vision classes, Sunshine School (for physically disabled students), Health School and open air classes, hospital classes, speech correction classes, and adult English classes. “Part-time school” became known as continuation school in 1929.

A form of foreign language instruction began as early as 1864 with classical study in Latin and German offered at Boys High School. In 1878, Superintendent A.L. Mann said that Spanish-language instruction was more valuable than French or German. Spanish instruction began in evening classes two years later, and the board passed a resolution in 1908 allowing for Spanish to be taught in high schools, alongside French and German.

In addition to foreign language instruction, the U.S. Supreme court ruled (in Lau v. Nichols, 1974) that the school district must provide bilingual education to non-English-speaking or limited-English proficient students. However, in 1998, California voters abolished bilingual education with passage of Proposition 227.

In 1852, the male teachers established the Teachers Institute to improve knowledge and the art of teaching. The school department ran a Normal School for teachers, initially consisting of weekly meetings, with the first class graduating in 1861. Other early professional organizations included the Teachers’ Mutual Aid Society, organized in 1873, the Principals’ Association of San Francisco (formed in 1888), and the San Francisco Teachers Club, organized in 1893. As the city grew, the number of teachers increased, and a number of teachers’ councils were formed. In 1911, the Kate Kennedy School Women’s Club was organized to further female teachers’ rights including salary equity. The club was merged with other teachers’ organizations into the Teachers’ Association of San Francisco in 1917. This organization immediately became active in municipal and state movements affecting schools, children, and teachers. The same year, the Classroom Teachers’ Association was also formed. The San Francisco Federation of Teachers, No. 61, was chartered by the American Federation of Teachers in 1919. In 1989, the SF Federation of Teachers merged with the SF Classroom Teachers Association, a chapter of the National Education Association, to form the United Educators of San Francisco.

In 1878, the first free kindergarten west of the Rocky Mountains was established at 64 Silver Street in San Francisco. Pioneered by Kate Douglas Wiggin, kindergartens were adopted by the school board in 1880.

The fire following the 1906 earthquake destroyed 31 school buildings. Public school children and citizens from around the country raised $30,157.15 towards the construction of a school building. Yerba Buena School was dedicated on May 23, 1909 utilizing these funds. The contents of the cornerstone were revealed during construction in 1922, and are included in this collection.

Vocational education classes were first offered at Humboldt Evening High School in 1896. In 1936, the Samuel Gompers Trade School opened its doors, providing vocational and academic courses, pre-employment courses, and apprenticeship training. The adult and vocational division was organized in 1945, and transferred to the newly created Junior College district in 1969.

The school district established San Francisco Junior College (also known as City College) in 1935, providing both academic and vocational instruction. The main campus on Phelan Avenue was dedicated in 1940. In 1969, the San Francisco Community College District was formed, thus separating the college from SFUSD.

The junior high school plan began in California in 1909. In 1913, three grammar schools, Crocker, Hamilton, and Horace Mann, were designated as intermediate schools, offering modified schedules and curriculum designed for adolescent children. In 1922, the same three schools were designated as junior high schools. These usually served seventh, eighth and ninth grades. Middle schools emerged in 1978, serving sixth through eighth grades.

Separate schools for “colored” children, established in 1854, were abolished in 1875. The first school for Chinese children was started in 1859. An act of the State Legislature in 1860 excluded Negroes, Mongolians, and American Indians from public schools, however, the penalty for admitting them was eliminated in 1864. By 1871, the Chinese school was closed and Chinese students were excluded from public schools. African American and Chinese American parents fought for inclusion in their neighborhood schools, bringing matters to the Supreme Court of California. In the case of Mary Frances Ward, the court pronounced in 1874 that separate was equal; however, if separate schools didn’t exist, colored children could enter white schools. In the 1885 case of Mamie Tape, a Chinese American student, the court ruled that the school district must provide an education. In response, the district immediately established the segregated Chinese Primary School, preventing Tape from attending Spring Valley School. Chinese students were allowed to attend neighborhood schools by the late 1920s, although racial segregation would not be repealed from the state’s Education Code until 1947, and geographic segregation would continue.

By the end of the nineteenth century, larger numbers of Japanese children were attending the city’s public schools, presenting the “Japanese question.” Following the earthquake and fire of 1906, the school department renamed the Chinese Primary School as the Oriental Public School, and directed all Chinese, Japanese, and Korean children to the school. This set an international crisis in motion, with President Theodore Roosevelt intervening. The segregation order against Japanese students only was lifted in 1907, and the federal government promised to restrict Japanese immigration, leading to the Gentlemen's Agreement of 1908 with Japan.

In 1954, the Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka, KS lawsuit outlawed separate-but-equal schools. Efforts to end de facto segregation in San Francisco included the start of busing in 1971. In 1978, African Americans sought to desegregate the district and improve the quality of education in San Francisco NAACP v. SFUSD. The resulting consent decree, approved in 1983, mandated the desegregation of all schools, programs, and classrooms, and stated that no school could have more than 40 percent of one ethnicity. Reconstitution, or the practice of bringing in new staff at low-performing schools, was promoted to improve academic achievement. In 1987, the racial cap was raised to 45%. In 1999, a group of Chinese parents successfully challenged the school district in a lawsuit over the racial cap (in Ho v. SFUSD), ending the use of race in assigning students. As a result, in 2002, the district instituted a "diversity index" which assigned students based on socio-economic factors. After two years under the diversity index, parents continued to be dissatisfied with having their children placed in cross-town schools.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

This collection documents the San Francisco Unified School District's history through materials collected by the Teachers Professional Library beginning in 1854, the fourth year of the Department of Common Schools as it was then known. While there are materials from the early years of the district, the bulk of the collection is from 1874 to 1978. Major areas include administrative documents, curriculum titles, reports produced by the school district, and newspaper clippings. Materials include administrative circulars, photographs, scrapbooks, books, pamphlets, newsletters, district directories, handbooks, budget documents, salary surveys and schedules, maps, and newspaper articles. Yearbooks have been transferred to the library's book collection and can be located through the online catalog. Some of the oldest materials are circulars from the superintendent to staff (1874-1929), an 1867 diploma for a member of the first class of Union Grammar School, an 1879 diploma for a member of the first class of Rincon Grammar School, pamphlets on education (known as "Scraps," 1854-1924, in Reports and Publications), courses of study (1876-1915, in Curriculum Titles), and an 1884-1885 class register. The most recent items are press clippings from 1999, and a graduation program and two compact discs (of music from Benjamin Franklin Middle School), 2003.

The circulars, annual reports, weekly and monthly bulletins, board rules and administrative regulations, and reports and publications provide a variety of information documenting the school district's history, issues, and policies from 1862 to 1977. (Annual reports, weekly bulletins, and board rules and regulations were transferred to the library's book collection; see Appendix B.) There are extensive newspaper clippings from 1906-1986, as well as a good number of curriculum titles from 1876-1979 (bulk 1927-1978). The earliest budget documents are from 1907. The collection includes the contents of cornerstones for Bay View School, laid March 8, 1908, and Yerba Buena School, laid May 23, 1909. Also included is Emmy Lou Packard's artwork for a third grade social studies series (in Curriculum Titles). Photographs mainly cover the years 1930 to 1977.

Major subjects include integration, buildings and grounds, counseling and guidance, disadvantaged groups, finances, rules and regulations, salaries, and vocational education. A few audio/visual materials are included (in the Curriculum Titles sub-series). A list of superintendents with years of employment is in Appendix C.

Board meeting minutes are not included other than items from minutes from 1927 to 1928. (The school district maintains board meeting minutes from 1908 to present.) The collection does not include building blueprints, personnel records, or student records.

ARRANGEMENT NOTE

The material has been arranged into nine series: Board of Education, Administration, Staff, Schools, Instructional Materials, Reports and Publications, Press

Clippings, Photographs, and Parent-Teacher Association. Within some series are a number of sub-series. Most series are arranged chronologically.

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

SERIES 1: BOARD OF EDUCATION, 1907-1985

1.25 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically.

This series contains certificates of appointment for the early 1900s, resolutions (1909-1910, pasted into a scrapbook), items from minutes (1927-1928), the 1946 administrative code, administrative regulations of 1971, and board policies adopted from the mid-1970s to 1980. Biographies of a few board members were moved from the Photographs series.

Rules and regulations of the board from 1863 to 1927 (broken, 8 volumes) were transferred to the library's book collection and have the call number 379.794 Sa52ru. Pictures of board members are found in the Photographs series. Published articles on the board are found in the Press Clippings series.

A copy of A Statement of the Conditions and Wants of the Public School Department of San Francisco by a Committee of the Board of Education, 1866, is included in the annual reports; see the library catalog. See the Administration—Superintendent sub-series for board policy circulars (from 1896-1925) included with the superintendents' circulars.

SERIES 2: ADMINISTRATION, 1874-1994 (bulk 1874-1929)

12 cu. ft.

Arranged into five sub-series: Superintendent of Schools, Budget, Legal, Directories, and Files.

This series contains administrative documents. Of special interest are the administrative circulars (1874-1929) issued separately by the superintendent and the board. Newspaper articles on superintendents (mainly 1964-1999) are found in the Press Clippings series.

Sub-series A: Superintendent of Schools, 1874-1970 (bulk 1874-1933)

8.67 cu. ft.

Arranged mostly chronologically.

This sub-series is further organized into four parts: Circulars and Bulletins, Monthly Bulletins, Special Reports, and Speeches and Appointments. The circulars, along with the superintendents' annual reports and weekly and monthly bulletins, provide good documentation of the school department from 1862 to 1977. Newspaper articles on superintendents are found in the Press Clippings series. See the Photographs series for pictures of superintendents.

Annual reports on the department's financial condition and accomplishments were submitted by the Superintendent to the Board. These bound volumes, from 1862 to 1937 and 1956 to 1967, have the call number 379.794 Sa52r. The 1862 report includes a school census, a school list, finances, teacher salaries, attendance, a list of graduates, and recommendations. The 1864 report has remarks on separation of the sexes, opposed by the superintendent, and bible instruction, supported by the superintendent. (Separate high schools for boys and girls were instituted that year.) Annual reports also include courses of study, examinations, property acquisitions, erection of new buildings, lists of teachers, principals and Board members, speeches, historical sketches, and lists of where teachers trained and their certification dates.

Beginning in 1930, the superintendent's office published weekly bulletins on professional subjects for teachers and department heads. The bulletins are bound into volumes by school year. The San Francisco Public Schools Bulletin, also known as Superintendent's Bulletin, was continued in 1967 by the San Francisco Unified School District Newsletter, also known as the District Newsletter. The weekly bulletins and newsletters (95 volumes removed to the book collection) cover the years, 1930 to 1977, and have the call number 379.794 Sa52sa v.1-37 and 39-48. See the Photographs series for photographs from these publications.

Part 1: Circulars and Bulletins, 1874-1957 (bulk 1874-1929)

7.6 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically.

Superintendents' circulars of memoranda (mostly printed) to staff include circulars issued by the Board. These are glued into scrapbooks, with a few duplicates in folders. Due to the fragility of the scrapbooks, some of these items may not be photocopied. Sample topics include rules and regulations, annual examinations, courses of study, supplies, vaccinations, holidays, lectures, and an essay contest offered by the Womens Christian Temperance Union on "Twin Evils, Intemperance and Tobacco," with cash prizes (July 20, 1881, circular no. 68). These scrapbooks are a good source of documents issued from 1874 to 1929. Circulars were later known as Bulletins.

Board circulars cover policies such as participation in censuses and school closures. Board memoranda on staff assignments are also found here. A May 13, 1896 circular instructs staff that "it is the desire of the Board of Education that Chinese and Japanese be not employed in or about the school buildings."

Part 2: Monthly Bulletins, 1930-1933 (broken)

.33 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically.

Monthly bulletins were interdepartmental newsletters issued by the Superintendent along with the weekly bulletins beginning in 1930. These were presumably intended mainly for teachers and principals. It appears that the monthly bulletins were published for only 3 years. A card index is included. Topics included the Community Chest, immigrant education, junior colleges, and handwriting instruction.

Part 3: Special Reports, 1942-1970

.67 cu ft.

Arranged chronologically.

Special reports include a 1942 report to the board by Superintendent Joseph P. Nourse, a 1950 report to the Board by Superintendent Herbert C. Clish on his philosophy of education, and 1950 and 1951 memoranda on a war training program and civilian defense.

Part 4: Speeches and Appointments, 1909-1939

6 folders

Arranged chronologically.

This small section has some speeches on the San Francisco Public Schools and copies of appointments of deputy superintendents by Alfred Roncovieri from 1909 to 1917.

Sub-series B: Budget, 1907-1985

1 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically, with statistical data last.

Includes budget documents (1907-1928 and 1971-1973), financial statements, financial statement reports, statistical data and reports, and reports on the organization of the budget office.

Sub-series C: Legal, 1909-1975

.67 cu. ft.

Arranged alphabetically by title.

Includes court transcripts of a few matters brought against the school district, grand jury reports, copies of California School Law (1909 and 1917), and California legislative reports.

Sub-series D: Directories, 1905-1994 (broken)

1 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically, with District Directories followed by Central Office Directories.

District directories generally list superintendent, deputy superintendents, administrative staff, board members, schools, and principals. Until about 1925, teachers' assigned schools and residences were also included. Central office directories refer to administration only, except for the 1994 directory which includes schools.

Sub-series E: Files, 1884-1978

.6 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically.

There are only a few administrative files. These include organization charts and administrative organization reports. Of note is an 1884-1885 class register which lists students' grades. Another unusual item is a 1906-1907 "day-book," or inventory, of supplies appropriated to individual schools and departments following the earthquake.

SERIES 3: STAFF, 1890-1979 (bulk 1940-1960)

4.5 cu. ft.

Arranged mostly chronologically.

This series focuses on employee matters and is organized into five sub-series: Employment, Policies and Procedures Handbooks, Professional Activities, Sabbatical Journals, and Salaries.

Sub-series A: Employment, 1909-1972

.7 cu. ft.

Arranged alphabetically by folder title.

The Employment sub-series includes a copy of Rules of the San Francisco City and County Board of Examination (1909), a report on recruitment, and the resignation statement of Superintendent Thomas A. Shaheen. No other personnel records are included.

Sub-series B: Policies and Procedures Handbooks, 1926-1979

1 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically by year, than alphabetically by title.

Employee manuals are located here. Topics include drugs, student behavior, and shop safety. Some policy guides can be found in other series including librarians' guides in Instructional Materials, board circulars in the Superintendent—Circulars sub-series, guidance manuals in Reports and Publications, and board and administrative regulations in the Board series. See the Schools series for faculty handbooks.

Sub-series C: Professional Activities, 1886-1979

.8 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically.

This sub-series includes publications of professional associations such as Association of California Classroom Teachers, San Francisco Federation of Teachers, California Retired Teachers Association. Also included are 1888-1897 meeting minutes of the Principals' Association of San Francisco, which have lists of probationary and substitute teachers and normal students. Other notable items are annual statements of the Silver Street Kindergarten Society and a few items of the California Kindergarten Training School, all 19th century documents.

Sub-series D: Sabbatical Journals, 1937-1972

.25 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically.

These are travelogues with an educational focus.

Sub-series E: Salaries, 1881-1978

1.75 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically, with salary schedules followed by salary studies.

This sub-series includes salary schedules for 1881 and 1908 to 1977; and salary studies from 1928 to 1962. Salary schedules, which listed pay for teachers and administrators, were sometimes also published in the city's Municipal Reports and superintendent's annual reports. The salary studies include petitions for adjustments by teachers' organizations.

SERIES 4. SCHOOLS, 1867-2003 (bulk 1970-1985)

7.75 cu ft.

Arranged by school level (elementary, middle, and high), then alphabetically by school name within each section. Schools named for individuals are listed as follows: First—(Middle)—Last name, and filed by Last name. (E.g., George Washington Carver, filed under Carver.)

This series contains files of individual elementary/grammar/primary schools, middle/intermediate/junior high schools, and high schools. Included are school profiles, faculty and student handbooks, graduation certificates, commencement programs, press clippings, contents of two cornerstones (Bay View School, 1908, and Yerba Buena School, 1909, removed in 1922), student body meeting minutes, student publications, flyers, and newsletters covering the planning of new schools and renaming of schools. Some interesting items are early graduation certificates (Union Grammar School, 1867, and Rincon Grammar School, 1879); an 1884 commencement program (Boys High School); a 1905 graduation certificate (Burnett Grammar School); a class register from 1904 to 1908 (John Swett Grammar School); a 1923 pamphlet on the history of San Francisco public schools written by an eighth grade civics class (Crocker Junior High); Student Journals, 1891 to 1905, two cloth banners (Denman Grammar and Madison Grammar), and a student's scrapbook, 1917-1921 (Girls High). Student work is included with individual schools. However, a few items of student work not tied to a specific school are included at the end.

Photographs are housed with the San Francisco Historical Photo Collection. Yearbooks have been transferred to the book collection.

SERIES 5. INSTRUCTIONAL MATERIALS, 1876-1979, (bulk 1927-1978)
18.5 cu. ft.

Arranged into four sub-series: Curriculum Titles, Curriculum Reports, Curriculum Newsletters, and Teachers Professional Library.

This series contains materials most of which were published by the school district's Division of Instructional Materials between 1924 and 1979. Formerly known as the Bureau of Instructional Materials, the department was later named Curriculum, Instruction and Professional Development, and is currently called the Chief Academic Office. The series is comprised of courses of study (beginning in 1876), later known as curriculum bulletins, and curriculum titles, which make up the bulk of the series; published studies on the curriculum; newsletters; and Teachers Professional Library guides. The Curriculum Titles sub-series includes bulletins for adult courses and the mentally retarded, and a study of San Francisco for third graders which includes booklets and filmstrips as well as artwork by artist, Emmy Lou Packard, for the booklets. Curriculum Reports documents curriculum development and revision beginning in 1935. The Teachers' Professional Library sub-series has a 1902 catalog of library books.

In the 1920s, formulation of the Seven Cardinal Principles of Education led to an examination of subject matter. A 1925 revision notably included curriculum for junior high school students. Curriculum revision was undertaken again in 1943, 1960, and 1978.

Sub-series A: Curriculum Titles, 1876-1979, bulk 1927-1978
16 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically by year, then alphabetically by title.

Sub-series B: Curriculum Reports, 1935-1978
2.2 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically by year.

Sub-series C: Curriculum Newsletters, 1948-1972
8 folders

Arranged chronologically.

Sub-series D: Teachers Professional Library, 1902-1954
9 folders

Arranged chronologically.

SERIES 6. REPORTS AND PUBLICATIONS, 1854-1998 (bulk 1942-1976)

14.6 cu ft.

Arranged alphabetically by topic, then chronologically.

This series contains reports and publications mostly published by the school district, and some dissertations. Considerable focus is given to the topics of integration (1962-1976), vocational/occupational education (1913-1974), buildings and grounds (1902-1982), counseling and guidance (1941-1973), and disadvantaged groups (1917-1976). Other topics include athletics (1948-1965), bilingual education (1968-1982), and San Francisco schools. Research bulletins produced from 1930-1957 largely cover testing and evaluation of achievement. Also included is a set of "Scraps," bound volumes of early education-related pamphlets (mostly 1860s-1870s).

SERIES 7. PRESS CLIPPINGS, 1906-1999 (bulk 1906-1986)

131 volumes (18 cu. ft. and 32 linear ft.) plus .6 cu. ft.

Arranged chronologically, with scrapbooks followed by folders.

This series consists largely of oversized scrapbooks of newspaper clippings on the school district, board, and schools. A few have a particular focus. For example, two 1906-1907 volumes largely cover the "Japanese Question," or exclusion of people of "Mongolian" birth from California and the schools. Another 1906 volume focuses on school reconstruction after the earthquake and fire. (In this scrapbook, news clips are pasted into an 1895 ledger belonging to a Thomas Larkin.) There are also two volumes on the 1912 recall of Berkeley Superintendent of Schools, Frank F. Bunker, and one on the California Teachers Association. Another scrapbook, likely created by a parent, covers (Mission) high school football and Navy Operating Base football. Due to the size and nature of the scrapbooks, these items may not be photocopied. Additionally, some magazine and newspaper clippings are in folders, organized alphabetically by subject, then chronologically. These loose clippings focus on board members in the 1980s, and individual superintendents of the 1970s through the 1990s.

SERIES 8. PHOTOGRAPHS, 1891-1998 (bulk 1930-1977)

6 cu ft.

Arranged into three subseries: Biographical, Schools, and Publications.

This series contains photographs and negatives collected by the publications division. The bulk of the collection is black-and-white photos, however, some color pictures are included. A list of negatives is found in Appendix E. A few damaged negatives and unfixed proofs were digitally copied and then removed. Photos and negatives were separated from the collection and are housed with the San Francisco Historical Photograph Collection. Researchers may request them during Photo Desk hours: Tuesdays and Thursdays, 1:00 to 5:00 pm; and Saturdays, 10:00 am to 12 noon and 1:00 to 5:00 pm. Also, many images are available online at www.sfpl.org.

Sub-series A: Biographical, [ca. 1910]-1989

.5 cu. ft.

Arranged by position (board members, superintendents, and other officials), and alphabetically within each section.

Sub-series B: Schools, 1891-1998 (bulk 1930-1977)

3.25 cu. ft.

Arranged by type of school (elementary, middle, high schools, and others), and alphabetically by name within each section. Schools named for individuals are listed first—middle—last name and filed by last name. (E.g., George Washington Carver, filed under Carver.)

The Schools sub-series contains photos of school buildings as well as some class pictures. Included are images of the first public schoolhouse on Portsmouth Square (drawings), promotion certificates from the 1880s (Moulder School), outdoor classes established following the 1906 earthquake, and an album from a Girls High School student (1920s). Images are mainly from the 20th-century and most can be viewed online at the library's website, www.sfpl.org.

Sub-series C: Publications, 1930-1978

2.25 cu. ft.

Arranged alphabetically by title.

This sub-series contains pictures from the San Francisco Public Schools Bulletin, also known as Superintendent's Bulletin, and the San Francisco Unified School District Newsletter, also known as the District Newsletter, and other district publications. Topics include events, performances, and classroom activities. Photos removed from two 1934-1939 albums cover student activities including radio broadcasts from the Golden Gate International Exposition.

SERIES 9. PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION, 1951-1972

1.2 cu. ft.

Arranged alphabetically, then chronologically.

This series contains publicity record books and history books of several elementary school Parent-Teacher Associations. Meeting minutes for one group are also included.
